

THE STUDENT'S PRESS

MANAGEMENT RELEASE

RUNWAY OF DEVELOPMENT

MARCH 2022

SELF SUSTAINING NATION - A PATH FOR DEVELOPED NATION

Self sustainability and self sufficiency are overlapping states of wherein someone or enterprise desires very little assistance from, or interplay with, others. Self sufficiency involves the self being enough to fulfill desires and a self maintaining entity can hold self sufficiency indefinitely. The Self sustainability is a sort of sustainable dwelling wherein not anything is fed on aside from what's produced with the aid of using the self enough individuals.

The pandemic has brought about a renewed mirrored image on what it approaches to be self-reliant in phrases of our ordinary practices. Nations too observe this common sense of their personal claims of self reliance. The relationship between the independence movement and self rule is an expression of political self-reliance. The latest invocation of self reliance by governments in India and elsewhere is primarily about economic self-reliance but like in the Indian case it is more specifically about self reliance in manufacturing. But the nature of self-reliance is such that it is difficult to understand economic self reliance without other forms of self-reliance, most importantly, a self-reliance of the `self` as well as of the `intellect`. It is this range of ideas that are present in self-reliance that needs to be understood, even for the narrow vision of self-reliance in manufacturing or other economic processes. In the context of the self-reliance of the nation, there is a new conceptual challenge that we have to face, namely, the use of the term self in the context of the nation. The COVID19 pandemic caused certain problems related to the relationship between the self and the society.

Prior to COVID, social was a field of personal interests—from security, health, infrastructure and travel to shopping. What the pandemic actually destroyed was our access to the social world, a world in which others worked for others. Labor itself was oriented around this act of distributing the tasks that one had to do for oneself. Restaurants where individuals need to cook for themselves, schools for children (at least most of the day), hospitals for health (many of which may have been in the hands of individuals).

The pandemic rudely halted this unquestioned feature of society. It first squeezed off the subletting of character movement to others. There had been no gyms for exercising and one needed to discover methods to exercising via way of means of oneself within side the confines in their residence or within side the limited area in their rental blocks. Social distancing actually distanced the social from everyone's lives.

- Kanishka (BA Eco (H))

Editorial Incharge
Dr. Parminder Bajaj
(Professor)

Student Editorial Team
Ujjwal Goel, Diksha Sangal,
Shyna, Shashank Gupta, Sanjana Roy

FABRICATING THREADS OF AN UNAIDED NATION

India, with its conventional ethos of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam i.e. the whole planet is one family, seeks to stand with the world. But, it is equally significant for each of the family members to be in a standpoint to aid oneself and then the larger family. Hence the notion of self-reliant India was foreknown at this germane time. At a time when financial patriotism is the decree of the day as the world order moves off globalization, India has contemplated a glorious new fate for itself.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has given a spirited signal for self-reliance – an 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' – where he talks of putting together India with the world, moving away from seclusion but in a position of inward stability. All of this will never be logical without each unit and cooperation. A self-sustaining economy is built by self-reliant citizens as the capital of a nation derives from the drive and expertise of its people. If each of the members of the population gainfully provides towards the economy, then such a population satisfies our collective strength.

The future of India lies in its villages – recalls us of the wisdom of the Father of the Nation Mahatma Gandhi of a self-sustainable village for the economic prosperity of pastoral India. They are the dominant drivers of monetary advancement, innovation, and employment as well as major drivers of poverty mitigation.

The sustainability lies in practical resource administration to accomplish new technological peaks. Strategies like Jal Shakti Abhiyan to improve water security, Swachh Bharat Mission, etc. have been inaugurated over the years that not only address reserve management but also provide livelihoods to protruding youth ripened to fruit the economy. India is an independent country in terms of sustenance products having a record outcome of fruits, vegetables, cereals, and the highest production of milk in the world. Further, it can retain sustainable food defense despite the surging community and rising appetite for distinct food commodities. But it is the farmers, who are clashing with low revenue, low profitability, and risk-laden pursuits.

Distressed with the predicament of the farmers, the government of India offered a clarion call for making twice as much the farmers' income by 2022 and assembled a sound roadmap that recognized seven citations such as improvement in crop productivity, diversification to high-value crops, a transition from farm to non-farm careers, etc. to fulfil the motive.

The Swabhiman Bharat endeavor goes beyond encouraging the moralities of Indian production. It sparkles the limelight on world-class Indian reserves and significant portrayals of excellence while also furnishing beneficial understanding into commodities, individuals and institutions that are invested in India's future and are molding its progress story. The ring for self-reliant India doesn't imply closing off portals to globalization but thriving with the world, as a self-sustaining India will bring into the world, surplus. Therefore we all should cooperate for a self-sustainable, outliving, and vibrant India which advances treasure to our robust inheritance.

Editorial Incharge
Dr. Parminder Bajaj
(Professor)

jims
Sector-5, Rohini, Delhi

Student Editorial Team
Ujjwal Goel, Diksha Sangal,
Shyna, Shashank Gupta, Sanjana Roy

SELF INTROSPECTION FOR A SELF-SUSTAINED NATION

Take a look at yourself and your accomplishments.

The rainforest had been ravaged, and the ground had become contaminated.

Waste and poisons infect entire realms.

Deep buried pesticides, fungicides, and insecticides.

Everything we eat and the once-perfect earth.

Take a look at yourself and your accomplishments.

The seas were greased, and the seas were massacred.

Suffocation was severe and life-threatening.

Plastic, batteries, and cigarette filters are all potential sources of contamination.

In relation to the so-called "Great Pacific Waste Patch".

Take a look at yourself and your accomplishments.

The stratosphere was strangled by ozone depletion.

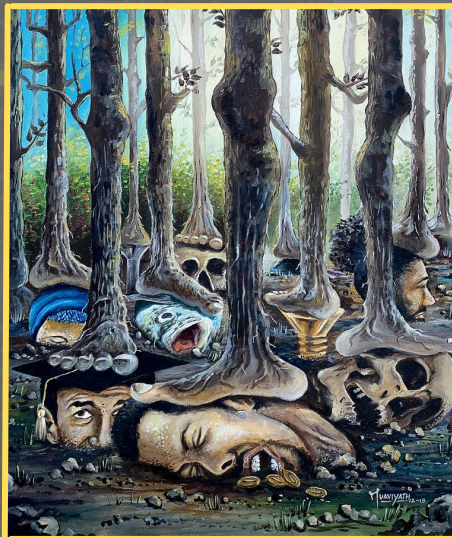

Missiles fired through a bygone era of pristine air.

Aerosol cans pollute the air, generating large holes in the ozone layer.

Melting the north pole, unbalancing evolution with heat.

Consider what you've accomplished.

My fury is out of control, and I'm hell-bent on wreaking havoc.

I've been to galaxies and back.

Have shattered stars and assassinated moons.

My entire presence foreshadows oncoming doom.

Consider what you've accomplished.

I've already obliterated the earth and announced Armageddon.

Your arrogance, egotism, and lack of respect.

On the other hand;

Nature has been disrespected by you.

You've plundering ; robbing, and stood there silently as continents wept.

Consider what you've accomplished.

I'm consumed by rage, and I'm wild with fury.

Remember what I showed you before? I'll demonstrate once more.

When my huge tail and scorching hot face shoot through the sky,

As a complete human race, it will be the final thing you witness.

When my mission is completed,

I'll go back to where I came from.

- Prachi (BA Eco (H))

Editorial Incharge
Dr. Parminder Bajaj
(Professor)

jims
Sector-5, Rohini, Delhi

Student Editorial Team
Ujjwal Goel, Diksha Sangal,
Shyna, Shashank Gupta, Sanjana Roy