Vodafone wins arbitration against India

In 2007 Vodafone bought 67% stake in Hutchison for $11 billion and for that they had to pay 7999 cr. to Indian govt. as withholding tax. But Vodafone challenged this in Bombay high court and Supreme court and then in the permanent court of arbitration, Hague, Netherlands. The court ruled out the India's retrospective demand of 22100 cr. And the court asked India to pay Vodafone 40 crore as reimbursement charge.

Global campaign to stop winter Olympics 2022 in China

UK, Australia and US along with 160 members has started a campaign to stop winter Olympics in China as these countries holds China accountable for covid 19 outbreak and to teach China a lesson they wants to boycott China. Till now India has taken no stance neither in support of this campaign nor in against. As venue can't be changed in such a short period, it is better to stop the game this time.

Cat que virus

In a latest study published in the Indian journal of medical research, scientists from the Pune – based maximum containment laboratory and ICMR – National institute of virology have noted the presence of antibodies against the Cat que virus in two human serum samples. It means that these two people had catque virus in the past and it implies that there is a possibility of human transmission. The origin of the virus was from culex mosquitoes in China and pigs in Vietnam.

Ganga Avalokan Museum

How much currency is held by public in India?

RBI has released its data about currency circulation in the market and it is around rs 26 lakh crore which is highest for the 1st time. Currency in circulation means cash within a country that is physically used to conduct transactions between consumers and businesses. It is calculated by deducting total cash deposits in the Banks from total currency printed. The reason for rise in the currency holding is during lockdown amidst covid 19 outbreak people were relying on neighborhood stores for groceries and other things and were withdrawing big amounts of cash at one go to meet their needs.

A cute challenge can go wrong if not cautious! # Be aware

The latest trend to take the internet by storm is the couple challenge where thousands of people from around the world have been sharing photographs with their partners on social media platforms. But this can be dangerous said Pune police on their Twitter handle and the reason for this is the pictures posted can be morphed, edited or can be used for pornography and other cyber crimes. Over the years thousands of people especially women in particular have fallen prey to cyber crime, and pics has been used to take revenge or for blackmailing etc. So think twice before you post.

Swiss watchmaker Swatch Shuts down some systems after cyberattack

Swiss watchmaker Swatch Group confirmed that it had identified “clear signs” of a cyberattack on some of its IT systems during the weekend. Following the attack, the group has shut down some of its technology systems for precautions. The shut down affected its operation. “The situation will return to normal as soon as possible”, the group said.

How US astronauts will cast their vote from space

NASA astronaut Kate Rubin, who will be aboard the international space station on the day of the US presidential election, will cast her vote from space. For this she had to apply for a federal postcard Application (FPCA) and NASA will submit in writing to the secretary of the state a method of transmitting and receiving a secret ballot for persons on space. A day before US election , an encrypted electronic ballot will be up linked to the astronauts , who then will use a set of unique credentials that are sent to them individually by email. In this way , they will access their ballots and after casting their vote , they will down link them back to earth to the country clerk’s office.

AFI Cancels National Championships this year in view of COVID-19 Pandemic

The Athletics Federation of India (AFI) on 30th September 2020 cancelled this year's national championships in view of the COVID-19 pandemic, virtually bringing the season to an end without any competition. The move was on expected lines after the AFI on August 28 decided to defer the season, earlier scheduled to start on September 12 in view of the global health crisis.

Loses Test Cricket Central Contract

As England Look to Future England wicketkeeper-batsman Jonny Bairstow lost his Test central contract on 1st October but Ollie Pope, Zak Crawley and Dom Sibley have been rewarded for impressive performances by being added to the red-ball retainer list. The move by the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) was not unexpected as Bairstow, 31, has played just one of the past 12 Test matches since the 2019 Ashes. The World Cup winner has been handed a specialist limited-overs deal, with Pope, Crawley and Sibley all promoted after scoring their maiden Test centuries over the past year.

General Atlantic to invest in Reliance

Reliance Industries on Wednesday announced that private equity firm General Atlantic will invest $500 million in Reliance Retail Ventures for a 0.84% stake. The investment values Reliance Retail at a pre-money equity value of $58.1 billion. Earlier this year, General Atlantic had invested nearly $900 million in Reliance's Jio platforms.

Tata Consumer may have a bid for Coffee Day

TATA Consumer Products is reportedly looking to bid for Coffee Day Enterprise's vending machine business. The company's board had approved exploring the acquisition of the business, which Coffee Day is valuing at 2000 crores.

Coffee Day Enterprises had also sold its tech park to lower its debt, which stood at around rupee 32000 crore in March.

Right to Privacy and its interplay with Constitutional Morality

Right to privacy is intrinsic to everyone and has been discussed time again. But the judgement pronounced in this relation has a very strike interplay with the concept of “Constitutional Morality”. On 24th August, 2017, Supreme Court in a nine-judge bench pronounced judgment in the Justice K S Puttaswamy v. Union of India regarding the constitutional right of privacy under Part III of the Constitution. This judgment overruled the decisions in M P Sharma (1954) having eight-judge bench and Kharak Singh (1962) which declared that right to privacy is not protected by Part III of the Constitution. It also spanned from 547 pages along with six different opinions with relevant observations.

Justice DY Chandrachud in this landmark judgment derived “Constitutional Morality” while deliberating over the issue of privacy as a fundamental right. The draftsmen of the constitution were very concerned with the life and liberty of individuals. Dignity plays a pivotal role in adding value to the human existence. They explicitly mentioned that life and liberty, equality and dignity forms the very foundational pillar of the Indian Constitution. These terms are formulated under Article 21 since the inception of this document. Justice Chandrachud made it clear that life and liberty are not born out of Constitution. Rather they are values naturally instilled within individuals and duly acknowledged by Constitution. Now, here the origin of privacy comes into play. He traced its evolution through various juristic writings and cases and thereby concluded that; Privacy assures security of one’s autonomy and dignity. It safeguards an individual’s interests in terms of having capability to regulate one’s life. Personal choices and the control over one’s life are an intrinsic facet of privacy. Nothing can justify its abrogation pertaining to the fact that privacy of a person is at the core of his/her personal dignity. The court catered to the most basic arguments regarding the relationship between liberty and privacy of people. The judgment so pronounced rejected all the submissions which were against the very nature of privacy. Though Constitutional Morality was very well engaged in this judgement. The essence of Constitutional Morality lies in the concept of constitutionalism. In the present judgment, Constitutional Morality can be traced to the values enshrined and preached by the Constitution. The right to life and liberty with dignity is the essence of the constitution. This is guaranteed under article 21, part III as a fundamental right. The right to privacy is attributed as an important facet of dignity. The court recognized privacy as constitutional right under the fundamental rights. The concept of privacy is inseparable from virtues of liberty and dignity. In this way, the judgment adhered to these principles of Constitution and duly deliberated. The adherence ultimately was driven at the backdrop of Constitutional Morality. The court decided the case keeping in mind the virtues of Indian Constitution through persistently taking into account constitutional morality.

The Mind explained (2019): A Netflix Documentary

Have you ever wondered what's happening inside your head? How does remembering work? Why do we dream? Discover how our mind works. Starring: EMMA STONE, MARIA BAMFORD.

This series is informative short documentary which travels our mind. This series is divided into 5 episodes that breaks down each area of our brain with informative graphics and attractive content. The show discusses five very concepts and how they affect the brain. In spite of somewhat contrived first episode that uses 9/11 as a tool to showcase memory, the rest of the series does well to blend interviews and hand-drawn cartoons to make its points. There is some really interesting content here and the crafty use of archival footage from films and interviews keep their audience engaged. The episode on Dreams explores artists like Salvador Dali and even the ending of The Wizard Of Oz to derive points from a wealth of different basis. The Mind, explained is a really engaging, visual treat. From cartoon segments featuring bright, vivid colors to black and white archival shots of famous people discussing the brain, this series is constantly mixing things up to keep things interesting. The Mind, Explained may not be the most intellectual and challenging documentary series on the topic but has enough engaging material to watch for an educational and entertaining purpose. Emma Stone does well with the narration duties and with the exception of the first episode's 9/11 slant, the rest of the series does well to keep things engaging and neutral. Given the short length of each episode and the excellent visual design, The Mind, explained is well worth checking out if you're in the mood for a bite-size, breezy burst of brilliance.

Facts You Don't Know About the History of MBA

MBA or Master of Business Administration is one of the most prestigious degrees worldwide. Being a PDGM student I thought well why not dig into the history of MBA. I found some interesting facts that I would like to share with you all.

MBA started in the Early 1900's

The world's first school of business – Wharton Business School was established at the University of Pennsylvania in 1881, it didn't offer graduate courses. The first graduate school of management, the Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth, only came into existence in 1900 and offered an advanced business degree – Master of Science in Commerce degree. However, the first school to offer an MBA degree was the Harvard Business School, Harvard University in Cambridge, MA, eight years later in 1908. The first ever class of an MBA program at Harvard had just 15 faculty members, 33 regular students and 47 special students. Aren't these figures and dates quite amusing?

For 50 years, MBA was only in the United States

The first MBA program outside the United States was in 1950 in Canada by the Richard Ivey School of Business at the University of Western Ontario. MBA was started in the University of Karachi in Pakistan in 1955, at INSEAD in France in 1957 (the first European MBA program), and at the Melbourne Business School in Australia. In 1960s, the Manchester Business School and the London Business School were established in UK.

Give It a Thought, Say No To Rape Culture

India, with immense love and respect is called "Bharat Mata". It is the "Motherland" for all country lovers. If we go on the literal Hindi meaning of the word, it means "मातृभूमि". The sayings that quote a mother's surroundings to be the safest of all places are innumerable. Then why is it, that many of us are still unsafe at our own homes? Since time in memorial, Bharat Mata has been renowned for the teachings and values that it has inculcated in its children. Sadly, treating women inferior or objectifying them was never a part of those preaching. People across the globe are admirers of the Indian culture. Grievously, Rape has also become a part of our "culture". Lack of education and lack of literacy were usually pinned as the main reasons for increasing rapes in India. Currently the percentage of illiterate population is 34%, but these numbers make no sense when the number of rapes are rapidly increasing. Literacy makes no difference because many culprits are political leaders, doctors, and teachers. Then why is it that we cannot rethink, revise and learn to control ourselves on our own? Even after strict laws and punishments nothing has changed, it is shameful that we have more daughters like Priyanka Reddy than like Kalpana Chawla in our society. Instead of lighting candles, we need to light the minds of people who think that "She is weak" and that they can force themselves on her. There is no need for academic intelligence to stop rapes, eve teasing or harassment incidents. What we actually lack is behavioral and emotional intelligence. It is important to understand that females are also a part of "Mankind". Both Rani Jhansi and Nirbhaya were fighters, what makes them different is that one lost her life fighting for her own people and the other lost her life because of her own people. If we cannot save a life, let us not take it either. Just give it a thought!

मैं नहीं एक माँस का लोथड़ा (टुकड़ा)
जिसको है कोई नोचता
मुझको टोकने से पहले
खुद को क्यों नहीं रोकता

क्यों हर बार गलती मेरी
मुझको ही संभालना होता है,
चुप-चुप के, एक डर से
मुझको ही क्यों जीना होता है,

मुझे जीना सिखाने से पहले
एक पल भी, क्यों तू नहीं सोचता
मैं नहीं एक माँस का लोथड़ा
जिसको है कोई नोचता,

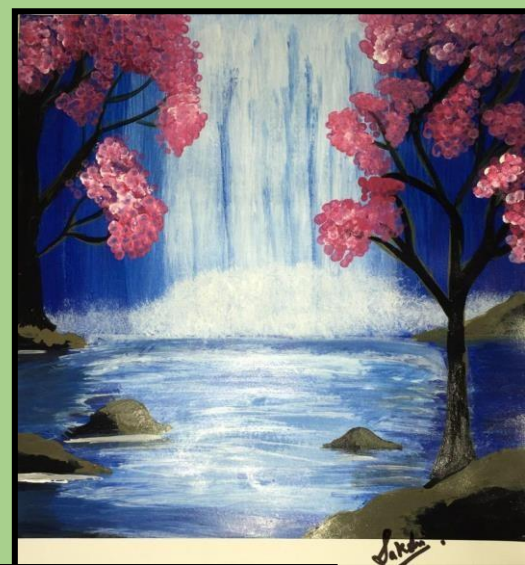

मेरे खयालों को उड़ने ना दिया किसी ने
दो टुक ज़िन्दगी भी जैसे भीख से मिली थी
सर उठा के जीने ना दिया किसी ने
टूटी जब आरजू तो टीस सी लगी थी

अपनी हैवानियत की आग में
मुझको ही हर बार क्यों ,तू है झोंकता
मैं नहीं एक माँस का लोथड़ा
जिसको है कोई नोचता .
